

I am writing in support of Wisconsin's No Call List. I object to a proposal being considered by FCC to weaken the Wisconsin list by allowing federal rules to override Wisconsin's law. Businesses do not need 18 months to repeatedly contact former customers with harassing phone calls. This opens up the no call list laws at both the state and federal level to further weakening by various business interests, and is not good public policy.